

Department of the political science.

Semester: 3.(CC-5)

Comparative government and politics

Comparative government and politics is the study of political system, institution and process in the different countries. Students can learn the following from the subject matter :-

- Comparative method and how it can be used to analyze different political system.
- Identify similarities and differences different political system and institutions.
- Compare political system and processes in different countries.
- Different political culture and political participation in government.
- Student express their view on the political system of their own country.